

BAN LIVE EXPORT...

Stop national disgrace

I was horrified by the TV footage showing the suffering and torturing of our animals sent to Indonesia.

This matter can no longer be swept under the carpet. They are Australian animals and we are responsible for their welfare.

As decent Australians we should be concerned and demand a ban on live exports to Indonesia and the Middle East.

Money made from the export of these animals is immoral and nothing more than filthy lucre.

I hear the cry: "What about the money lost if we ban live exports?" Instead, these animals could be killed humanely in Australian abattoirs and then shipped overseas. It will be a national disgrace if we continue to export our animals knowing that they will be subjected to such shocking cruelty.
